1. The first part of the document is a photograph of a building, which appears to be a large, multi-story structure with a complex roofline. The building is surrounded by trees and other vegetation, and the overall scene is somewhat dark and grainy. The photograph is oriented horizontally, but the building itself is rotated 90 degrees clockwise, making it difficult to discern specific details. The image is labeled with the number '1' in the top left corner.

and the facts tending to establish the foregoing grounds for issuance of a Search Warrant are as follows:

Affiant is a certified peace officer of the State of New Mexico and is currently employed as a police officer with the New Mexico State Police. Affiant is currently assigned to the Criminal Investigations Divisions of the New Mexico State Police. Affiant has been a police officer for in excess of five years. During this time affiant has received both classroom and on the job training in the investigation of violent crimes including crimes involving kidnapping and criminal sexual penetration. Affiant has also received training related to sex crimes involving bondage and torture. As a part of affiant's official duties affiant has been assigned the investigation of a kidnapping / sexual penetration case, the primary crime scene of which is located at the residence and property described herein above at 513 Bass Road, Sierra County, New Mexico.

As a part of this investigation officers of the New Mexico State Police served a search warrant on March 23, 1999, at the residence and property described herein above. A copy of that search warrant and affidavit are attached hereto as exhibit 1 and incorporated herein as if fully set forth herein. During the course of the execution of the search warrant officers observed numerous items as described herein above. In addition, on March 23, 1999, an arrest warrant was issued for the arrest of DAVID PARKER RAY, one of the suspects herein. A copy of the affidavit for the arrest warrant is attached hereto as exhibit 2 and is incorporated herein by reference as if fully set forth herein.

During the execution of the search warrant officers entered the cargo trailer described herein above. The interior of the cargo trailer appeared to be lined with a soundproofing substance. A sample of the substance is necessary to determine its nature and the purpose of having such a substance in the trailer. This material is evidence in a criminal prosecution of this case to establish motive and intent of the suspect and the purpose and use of the cargo trailer and its contents. Within the cargo trailer the wall on the left was covered with restraint devices and other similar objects used to hold or restrain individuals. Directly in front as one enters the rear of the cargo trailer is a modified table / chair like device with restraint holds on it and what appears to be electrodes running across it for the purpose of shocking the person on the table. On the right side, to half way back in the trailer are additional restraint and torture devices. At the right rear of the trailer is a metal "medical" cabinet displaying anatomy books, medical books and a chart depicting what appears to be methods of sexual torture and bondage. Through out the trailer and the residence there are sexual explicit periodicals, magazines, drawings and photographs that appear to be of different persons. The ages of the photographs also appear to be distinctly different in age. In addition, there is a hypodermic syringe and what appear to be surgical tools also displayed in the cabinet. Similar books and publications were also located in other parts of the cargo trailer. On the left wall, about half way down the trailer were located photographs depicting women in various stages of bondage. These photographs had been described to officers earlier by co-defendant HINDY and officers were told that two of these women had been killed by defendant RAY. Also located in the trailer and the residence are notes and sheets of paper containing what appear to be instructions on how to conduct bondage and torture.

The seizure of these items is necessary as evidence of the suspect(s) intent, motive and planning in the course of this criminal prosecution. In addition the identity of the other persons pictured in the photographs needs to be determined to determine if they are also victims of the defendant herein. During the course of the search of this cargo trailer there was also found an ashtray containing cigarette butts. Trace evidence from these cigarettes may assist in the establishment of the persons who have had access to this cargo trailer.

Affiant is aware through experience, knowledge and training that persons involved in bondage and torture of others often keep records, diaries and notes relating their sexual experiences with each victim. These are kept for many reasons, among them are to enable the offender to re-live the experience and to allow the offender to relate these experiences to others. In addition, the offender involved in the sexual torture of others may diagram or draw out his fantasy. In addition, persons involved in the sexual torture and bondage of persons may save the actual crime scene by means of audio or video recordings. This again allows the offender re-live and if wanted, display to others, the acts he has committed. During the execution of the first search warrant in this matter there were observed in plain view journals, photograph albums and scrapbooks which appear to contain the type of materials described herein including but not limited to photographs, notes, diagrams, pictures, and other material related to the actual commission of sexual offenses or the depiction of "cartoon" like drawings of sexual offenses. In addition numerous, approx. 100 video tapes were discovered. These video tapes have not been viewed but as noted above, persons involved in the type of sexual activity discovered by this investigation, may take video tapes of actual bondage sexual acts and torture. In addition, officers were advised by the co-defendant HENDY that the defendant RAY has made audio tapes to be played for victims as an introduction as to what he will be doing to them. In addition persons involved in the type of sexual activity complained of by the victim in this case also have been known to communicate with others describing in letters or notes their sexual activity. These items are necessary in the prosecution of this case to establish motive, intent, pre-meditation and the absence of mistake. These items are also necessary in this investigation for the purpose of identifying additional victims and or participants in these matters. Co-defendant HENDY has related to officers involved in this investigation that the defendant RAY has been responsible for 14 homicides.

As officers were searching the residence under authority of the first search warrant the officers noticed a word processor and monitor. Affiant is aware that many persons today use personal computers / word processors to store and maintain information. Affiant is aware that persons may, in addition to writing matters down in hard copy journal form or in addition to doing so, may keep such information in the hard drive, memory or on computer disks. Such information is evidence in this criminal investigation and prosecution. A seizure of this word processor and monitor will also entail and require an examination of the contents of the word processor memory, contents of the hard drive (if any) and examination of the contents of the disks (if any) upon which the information sought may be stored.

During the course of this investigation officers discovered a diarama or staged scene enclosed in a glass and wood case. The items contains dolls posed and painted in different positions depicting bondage and sexual sadism. The seizure of this item is needed to demonstrate motive, intent, method and style of the crimes as alleged to have been committed by the defendant in this case.

The search of the crime scene under the original warrant demonstrated that the defendant RAY has numerous radios capable of transmitting and well as scanners in both the Dodge Ram Charger and his residence. In this specific case the defendant RAY identified himself as a police officer when kidnapping the victim. The discovery of police related frequencies on the radios and / or scanners as well as nay notes associated with police frequencies are evidence of his continued plan or scheme in securing his victims. In this same manner identification which would show the defendant to be a police officer or a security officer would be material evidence in the criminal prosecution of this case.

During the course of the execution of the original warrant in this case a brown "coffin" like box was discovered. This box was approximately 7 feet long and about 2 ½ feet square. The box was carpeted inside and had "D" rings inside. There were also ventilation holes so that a person could be secured in the box and at the same time kept alive for an extended period of time. This item is evidence of the defendant's intent lack of mistake and of his preparation for securing and keeping persons for extended periods of time.

Officers were advised by co-defendant HENDY that the defendant RAY would photograph the victims in various states of bondage and torture. Photographs of the victim in this case were taken as she was being tortured. Some of these photographs have been found by officers involved in this case. Make up kits and similar items are evidence in this case as co-defendant HENDY stated that the defendant RAY would use make-up on his victims so that they would photograph properly if he, RAY, felt portions of their bodies would not photograph well without make-up. Again, these items are necessary to demonstrate the continued criminal activity of the defendant and his criminal intent as well as being verification of the information received from the victim and the co-defendant.

It has also been learned through training and experience of affiant that persons involved in acts of sexual bondage and / or torture may keep items from the victims as keepsakes and as described above may keep photographs of the victim. These may be kept at a secured location away from the residence. This keeping items away from the residence may be done for any number of reasons including the safe keeping of the items as well as to keep the items from law enforcement officers. The location of these repositories may be determined by finding receipts for the rental of safe deposit boxes or storage facilities.

The "sound proofing" material described above which lined the inside of the cargo trailer appeared to affiant to be a styrofoam like material. Located at the rear of the residence during the execution of the first search warrant were three large styrofoam blocks which appear to have been used as floats. These items or similar items may have been used to form the sound proofing material in the cargo trailer. These items are items of evidence as they may be items which were used or similar ones which were used in making the interior of the cargo trailer.

Rent receipts and leases as well as the other documents described as showing ownership or the right to use the property is important to demonstrate the connection of the defendant to the crime scene. In addition, registration materials for vehicles as well as insurance policies demonstrate the relationship of persons to vehicles or trailers they own or have the right to use.

All of the structures (residence and sheds), vehicles (Ram Charger and two boats) and the cargo trailer will be searched for the above described items. In addition, each of these will be searched and examined for trace evidence as described above. Trace evidence is evidence which is transferred from one source to another. The location of trace evidence can determine whether an item is or has been in a given location or has come in contact with other items. In the present case the victim displayed cuts which had been bleeding and which showed blood on her person. A person or persons coming in contact with the victim's blood may take that blood and transfer that blood to other locations or objects. Because the victim in this case was sexually assaulted, the affiant is aware that there may also be a transfer of the other types of body fluids listed herein above. In this case the clothes of the victim were removed and she was kept in a vehicle and residence. In so doing her body may pick up fibers and hairs from the defendant and any of the surroundings with which the defendant has come in contact including but not limited to the interior of the cargo trailer, the interior of the Ram Charger and the boats, shed and the residence itself. The same is true of the trace evidence from the victim, it may have been deposited by the defendant in any of the same places. These items are necessary for examination and comparison. Sample standards for comparison will be taken from various items and locations in the residence, sheds, cargo trailer and boats. The cargo trailer will be taken in total and exposed to examination for the items listed herein above as well as other items of trace or latent evidence. Fingerprint examination will also be conducted for comparison purposes with the defendant(s) and victim. In addition, fingerprints of undetermined origin as well as trace evidence of undetermined origin will be subjected comparison and analysis to determine its origin or source if possible. The work on the crime scene and the trace evidence analysis will be conducted as a joint investigation with the New Mexico State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The cargo trailer itself will be seized and taken into the custody of the New Mexico State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the purpose of crime scene processing for evidence. In the collecting and taking of trace evidence it may become necessary in order to preserve the integrity of the sample to take the items which the sample is found on or attached to, including but not limited to cement flooring, rugs, carpets, draperies, ceiling material, roofing material, tiles, doors, walls or household appliances and / or household fixtures from the residence, sheds, out buildings, boats, vehicles or cargo trailer. The vehicles and boats may be taken in total for complete examination in a confined and controlled environment.

Information has been received from the co-defendant HENDY that the defendant would bury or dump victims at various locations in Sierra County. Affiant is aware through knowledge and experience that persons involved in the disposing of bodies will often bury the bodies in shallow graves. One location which was pointed out to officers by co-defendant HENDY was a deserted ravine north of Truth or Consequences, New Mexico. In the same manner as trace evidence is transferred in the form of blood or fibers so to dirt and soil can be transferred from the earth to tools used to dig in the ground or to footwear and clothing. During the course of the execution of the first search warrant at the premises there were observed several digging tools on the property which had dirt on them. In order to make a comparison of the dirt at the location of the residence soil samples from this known location and compared to the soil on the digging tools. Soil may also contain pollen and other factors which could identify the location from which it was taken. These tools and samples are evidence which are material in the criminal prosecution of this case and necessary in the continued investigation of this matter by the New Mexico State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In addition, officers of the New Mexico State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation have relayed information concerning items observed at the premises and information from the co-defendant HENDY to members of the Behavioral Sciences Unit of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Based upon this information relating to the photos, journals and statements to officers by HENDY, the Behavioral Sciences Unit has advised that persons who act as RAY has been described as acting will often keep momentos or trophies from their victims. Persons such as RAY will then bury these items near trees or plants and in watering the trees or plants will be caring for the momento or trophy buried near it. In addition, persons such as RAY will re-plant trees or bushes to note the location or locations of newly obtained items from victims. These items from the victim may range in type and kind from hair and body parts to jewelry and clothing. Neighbors in the area have reported seeing RAY on numerous occasions digging up and or re-planting trees on the premises. In addition to the physical digging of the earth, investigators and others processing the crime scene will use specialized equipment and / or trained cadaver dogs to assist in the search. Such an examination will also result in additional soil samples being taken for examination and analysis.

Items which demonstrate or purport to demonstrate the handwriting of DAVID PARKER RAY are necessary for comparison to the handwriting which is found in the journals or on other documents displaying descriptions or drawings of sexual bondage and sexual sadism. Such items would be material in the comparison of the handwriting as evidence in the prosecution of this case.

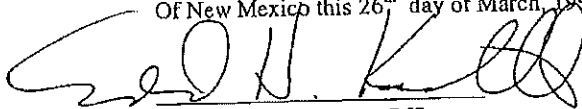

Wherefore affiant respectfully requests the Court to issue a search warrant authorizing the search of the above-described premises, residence, sheds, vehicle, boats and trailer for the items described and listed herein above. In addition, affiant also respectfully requests the Court order this search warrant affidavit, the search warrant and the return and inventory to be filed later be sealed until further order of this Court.

In addition, Affiant respectfully requests the Court authorize the making of working copies of evidence, which is seized in this case. This is necessary because of the nature of the case and the continuing course of this investigation. Photographs, which have been seen by officers in the course of the execution of the first search warrant in this case, clearly depict what affiant believes to be live females in various poses of sexual bondage and torture. In consideration of the statement of the co-defendant HENDY, that the defendant RAY has in fact been involved in the murder of females he has sexually tortured affiant believes that a reasonable effort should be made by law enforcement to determine the identity of these females in the photographs and to make a comparison between these person so pictured and persons reported to be missing in New Mexico and throughout the United States. Without a working duplicate copy being made of these seized photographs being made such an effort would be impossible. The same is true for the videotapes and audiotapes, which are sought to be seized pursuant to this warrant. Still photographs may be made from the videotapes and voice comparisons may be made from the audiotapes. As a result there is a need for working duplicates for both the video and audiotapes once they have been seized. It will also be necessary to obtain working duplicate copies of the books, articles, magazines, journals, notes and drawings as well for analysis of their content and comparison to known samples of handwriting.

Distribution of the working duplicates will be limited to the Officers of the New Mexico State Police, the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the 7th Judicial District Attorney's Office who are assigned to the case. Forensic personnel may be provided with copies for the purpose of forensic comparison and analysis. The original items of evidence will be maintained by the New Mexico State Police and / or the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

AFFIDAVIT FOR SEARCH WARRANT

Affiant is a full time salaried New Mexico State Police Officer for approximately five (5) years, nine (9) months and is currently assigned to the Criminal Investigation Section Bureau, Zone 5, Las Cruces, New Mexico and is certified by the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy.

On March 22, 1999, Affiant was assigned to conduct a criminal investigation of an alleged Kidnapping and Criminal Sexual Penetration that occurred in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico in Sierra County. It is alleged that on this day, at approximately 5:55 p.m., Affiant arrived at the Cooper Training Center in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, and was briefed by Sierra County Deputy David Elston of the following.

Deputy Elston related he, and Deputy Lucas Alvarez, were dispatched to a 911 hang-up call from a residence at 513 Bass Road in Elephant Butte, New Mexico. The dispatcher informed him he heard a commotion in the background, then the 911 call was terminated. While enroute to the location, he was further advised by the dispatcher of another report of a naked woman seen running on the road and was at that time seen around the residence of 301 Springland Road, in the same neighborhood.

Deputy Elston advised he dropped off Deputy Alvarez at 301 Springland Road to follow-up on the reported naked woman, and he proceeded to 513 Bass Road. Upon arriving at 513 Bass Road, the mobile home, where the 911 hang up occurred. Deputy Elston found no one outside. Deputy Elston advised he was met by two State Park Rangers, from the Elephant Butte State Park Recreational Office, and with their assistance approached the rear of the residence. Deputy Elston advised he observed a white, Dodge Ram, pickup parked at the mobile home, 513 Bass Road. As he and the Park Officers approached the trailer, he found a rear sliding glass door unlocked. Deputy Elston said entry was made through this glass door, and a welfare check was conducted for any person or persons found inside.

Deputy Elston said he and the assisting Park Rangers knew who lived at the residence. He said the Park Rangers knew David Ray as being a fellow employee, who is currently employed with them at New Mexico State Parks as a mechanic. Mr. Ray's girlfriend is known to be a Cindy Hendy. Deputy Elston said upon entering the mobile home, they did a "walk through" of each room and found no person injured or inside the mobile home.

Deputy Elston and the Park Rangers advised during the welfare check, they observed various devices including, dildos, whips, restraints, and chains with restraints hanging from the ceiling in one room. They said in another room containing a bed, they observed what was believed to be stains of dried blood on the bed sheets. There was some contention by the officers that a struggle had ensued on the bed, by the pieces of a broken lamp found on and around the bed. This bed in question also contained restraints on the headboard.

Deputy Elston said a State Park Ranger advised him that David Ray and Cindy Hendy were located together in a camper vehicle being driven by Mr. Ray. The officers making contact with Mr. Ray and Ms. Hendy advised they observed dried blood on the back of Cindy Hendy's head and on the back of her shirt. This vehicle is identified to be a 1978 Toyota Recreational Vehicle displaying a New Mexico license plate of 1807-RVP.

Deputy Elston advised David Ray and Cindy Hendy were detained and taken to the Richard R. Cooper Boat Safety Center in Truth or Consequences as the investigation continued. This building is located off highway 95, at Box 13 Elephant Butte, New Mexico. The 1978 Toyota Royal RV was impounded and towed from the scene under the direction of Sheriff Terry Byers and secured inside the Richard R. Cooper Safety Center building. The vehicle was transferred to New Mexico State Police Criminal Investigator Rudy Ramirez and taken by wrecker to the New Mexico State Police office in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, where it was secured.

Affiant was advised the naked woman had been identified as Cynthia Vigil. Ms. Vigil claimed to be a victim of the crimes of Sexual Assault and Kidnapping. Deputy Lucas Alvarez took Ms. Vigil to the Sierra Vista Hospital in Truth or Consequences for medical treatment.

At approximately 8:30 p.m., Affiant met with Deputy Alvarez at the hospital. Deputy Alvarez stated he had met with the victim at 301 Springland Road. Deputy Alvarez advised the victim, Cynthia Vigil, from Albuquerque, New Mexico. Deputy Alvarez said she was found wearing a pink robe, and had a metal type collar around her neck secured by a lock.

Deputy Alvarez stated Ms. Vigil was screaming hysterically when he first arrived. Ms. Vigil said she had been kidnapped and locked up for three (3) days. She further claimed the person who had detained her is currently employed by the New Mexico State Parks, and she identified him by the name, "David." Deputy Alvarez advised Ms. Vigil had minor cuts and bruises on her body and was complaining about an injury on her head.

At approximately 8:50 p.m., Affiant interviewed Cynthia Vigil. Affiant observed small cuts on both of her legs, bruising on her right arm, bruising and abrasions on both of her wrists. Affiant also observed welt-type marks on Ms. Vigil's back. In addition, the Affiant observed a small puncture wounds and light bruising on her aureoles.

Cynthia Vigil stated on Saturday, March 20, 1999, between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m., she was on Central Avenue in Albuquerque, New Mexico. Ms. Vigil advised an acquaintance introduced her to David Ray and Cindy Hendy, who were in their recreational vehicle. She said David Ray showed her a small badge and told her she was under arrest for solicitation and was placed in handcuffs by Cindy Hendy.

Ms. Vigil said she was then restrained to a fixture inside the camper, then both David Ray and Cindy Hendy stripped her of her clothes and threatened to shock her with an electrical type device. She stated she was taken to an unknown residential location, where she was restrained. She stated she had been assaulted with dildos, which were inserted to her vagina and rectum. In addition, Ms. Vigil said she had been subjected to "shock therapy", to her breasts, while Cindy Hendy watched.

Ms. Vigil did state that a audio tape recording was played to her detailing what David Ray was going to do to her. She was shown photographs of naked women who were also in restraints. Ms. Vigil also stated to Affiant that photographs were taken of her, while she was restrained from the ceiling in one of the rooms. She referred to this room as being the dirty room, where she observed whips, chains, dildos, pulleys, belts, and the electrical devices used to shock her breasts and body. Cynthia Vigil stated that David Ray told her he would later take her outside to the "playbox", referring to an outer building where he claimed was an gynecology table.

Affiant requests that a search warrant on the 1978 Toyota Royal with identification RH28140120, displaying a New Mexico license plate of 1807-RVP, and under the registration name of Tina Severns with an address of box 503 Truth or Consequences, New Mexico. This warrant would assist in the identification and collection of trace, serology, fingerprints and restraining devices. Cynthia Vigil did state she had been disrobed by David Ray and Cindy Hendy, while inside the camper.

Affiant believes that certain evidence, such as personal restraints, could be concealed in a Dodge Ram utility vehicle located on the property. Affiant believes that a search warrant should be issued for the above-described residence, any and all curtilage thereof and for the above described vehicle. located at 513 Bass Road Elephant Butte, New Mexico. This mobile home is white in color, has a chain link fence gate, and contained within the property is a white, Dodge pickup bearing New Mexico license plates of 705-GLN.

This search warrant should include the search of any other vehicles, vessels, trailers, storage sheds and any other residential or non-residential buildings located at 513 Bass Road. This search warrant is to locate and seize any sexually explicit objects, items, sexual explicit documents, whips, chains, restraints, photographs, video and audio recordings, victims clothing, and revolver found in or around this residence for the prosecution of David Ray and Cindy Hendy, which was supplied by the corroborating parts of Cynthia Vigil statement.

Affiant believes that Cynthia Vigil is a reliable person, because she has detailed information about details to her kidnapping and detention in this vehicle driven by David Ray and the passenger Cindy Hendy. Affiant feel there is sufficient probable cause to warrant a search of the 1978 Toyota Royal RV, for hair, fiber, cloths, electrical device, sexually explicit photographs or other pornographic photographs, a handgun, shackles or handcuffs, a small badge, any explicit sexual devices and or hand and feet restraints.

Contrary to law of the State of New Mexico.

The undersigned further states the following facts on oath to establish probable cause to believe that the above-named defendant committed the crime(s) charged: (include facts in support of the credibility of any hearsay relied upon).

Affiant is a full-time salaried and certified law enforcement officer employed by the New Mexico State Police for approximately 5 years 9 months and is currently assigned to the Criminal Section Bureau, Zone 5, Las Cruces, New Mexico. Affiant has received both classroom, advanced training and on the job training in the investigation of Sexual Assault and Violent Crimes Investigations. As an Agent with the New Mexico State Police, affiant has developed and maintains a level of expertise in the investigation of this type of crime. During the course of affiant's official duties, Affiant has become involved in a reported Kidnapping and Criminal Sexual Penetration, which occurred on March 19, 1998, at the home of David Parker Ray, located at 513 Bass Road, in Sierra County.

On March 22, 1999, Affiant was assigned to conduct a criminal investigation of an alleged Kidnapping and Criminal Sexual Penetration that occurred in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico.

AFFIDAVIT FOR ARREST WARRANT - CINDY HENDY

On the same date, at approximately 5:55 p.m., Affiant arrived at the Cooper Training Center in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, and was briefed by Sierra County Deputy David Elston. Deputy Elston related he was dispatched to a 911 hang-up call on 513 Bass road. The dispatcher informed him he heard a commotion in the background. While enroute to the location the dispatcher further advised him of a report of a woman running on the road naked, and then the woman was at a residence, 301 Springland Road. Deputy Elston left Deputy Lucas Alvarez at 301 Springland road and continued to proceed to 513 Bass Road. Deputy Elston arrived at the residence and found the rear sliding glass door unlocked. With assistance from a New Mexico State Park Ranger, they cleared the residence for any endangered persons. While clearing the residence, Deputy Elston said he observed, in plainview, various sexual devices and restraints in a bedroom. He said the assisting State Parks Ranger identified the residence as belonging to David Parker Ray, who is also, employed the New Mexico State Parks. A sign on the entrance gate had the name of David P. Ray, 513 Bass, K8, on it. Deputy Elston advised he is acquainted with both David Ray and Cindy Hendy as local residents of Sierra County. A State Park Ranger advised affiant that both suspects were located together in a camper vehicle driven by David Ray. A cut and dried blood was observed on the back of Cindy Hendy's head and the back of her shirt.

At approximately 8:30 p.m., Affiant arrived at the Sierra Vista Hospital, in Truth or Consequences, New Mexico, and was briefed by Deputy Lucas Alvarez. Deputy Alvarez indicated he was left at 301 Springland Road with another Deputy. He located the victim, Cynthia Vigil, who came out of the residence wearing only a pink robe. He indicated the victim was in a hysterical state, screaming she had been kidnapped and locked up for 3 days. Deputy Alvarez stated she had minor cuts and bruised on her body and a bump on her head. The victim had a metal type collar around her neck that was secured with a padlock. A metal chain was attached to the collar and the collar was cut off at the emergency room. The victim identified one of the suspects by the name of David, and also as an employee of the State Parks.

At approximately 8:50 p.m., Affiant interviewed Cynthia Vigil. Affiant observed small cuts on both of her legs, bruising on her right arm and bruising and an abrasion on both of her wrists. Affiant also observed welt type marks on the victims back and small puncture wounds and light bruising on her aureoles. Cynthia Vigil indicated on Saturday, (03/20/99) between 10:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m., she was on Central Avenue, in Albuquerque, New Mexico. She was introduced to the suspects, David Ray and Cindy Hendy, by an acquaintance. She met with the suspects in a recreation vehicle. David Ray showed her a small badge and told her she was under arrest for solicitation. Cindy Hendy then came out of the restroom and handcuffed her. She was then restrained to a fixture inside of the camper. The suspects then stripped her of her clothing and threatened to shock her with an electrical type device.

Cynthia Vigil continued to state she was taken to an unknown residential location where she was restrained by her legs and arms to a bed. She described how David Ray emplaced dildos into her vagina and rectum simultaneously and Cindy Hendy watched on. She stated Cindy Hendy waived a small revolver at her threatening she would shoot her if she tried to escape. Cynthia Vigil also stated when she was escorted to the bathroom, David Ray would carry the same revolver with him. She described receiving "shock therapy" in which two occasions, David Ray would attach electrical type connections to her breasts, which would send electrical shocks through her body. Again, Cindy Hendy would look on as this occurred and assisted in keeping her restrained. Cynthia Vigil said she heard Cindy Hendy refer to David Ray as David, and David Ray referred to Cindy Hendy as Cindy.

AFFIDAVIT FOR ARREST WARRANT - CINDY HENDY

MAGISTRATE COURT
SIERRA COUNTY

MAR 23 1999

Cynthia Vigil recounted on Sunday (03/21/99) how Cindy Hendy and David Ray whipped her on her back with a leather object with straps, as she was restrained and hung from the ceiling. After the whipping, David Ray inserted a metal type dildo into her vagina.

Cynthia Vigil related how on Monday (03/22/99) she escaped from the residence while David Ray was at work and Cindy Hendy was alone with her. Vigil took advantage of being only restrained by a metal collar type object in order to escape, and when she did flee, she was nude and wearing only the metal collar. While Vigil was escaping, a scuffle ensued where Cindy Hendy struck Vigil on the head with a lamp. Cynthia Vigil stated she struck Cindy Hendy's head with an ice pick.

Affiant feels there is sufficient probable cause to warrant the charge stated herein.

NARRATIVE

This supplemental report documents my involvement in the criminal investigation of an alleged kidnapping and sexual torture that occurred on March 22, 1999, at 513 Bass Road, Elephant Butte, New Mexico, in Sierra County.

On February 1, 2000, at approximately 9:00 a.m., I arrived at the Federal Bureau of Investigations District Office in Albuquerque and assisted FBI Special Agent Larry Houpt with the presentation of evidence to the Defense Counsel for David Ray. This evidence was identified by Agent Houpt, Assistant District Attorney Jim Yontz and myself as to be used in the trial of David Ray.

Defense Counsel Jeff Rein and his assistants, Kathy Love and Sarah Singhaus, were present for the review of the evidence. A law school intern, Steve Gonzales, was also present for the evidence review and assisted ADA Yontz. I assisted Agent Houpt transport bulk evidence from a secured room to the room where it was being examined.

Evidence seals were intact prior to verification of the items by Mr. Rein. After the items were verified, they were placed in their original packages and resealed or placed in new packages, along with the original packages, and resealed. The seals were initialed and dated by Agent Houpt. We both wore protective gloves during this process.

At approximately 10:30 a.m., New Mexico State Police Evidence Custodian David Bangs arrived at the FBI office bringing items of evidence from the white utility trailer (toybox). Jeff Rein reviewed containers that had numerous documents that included but not limited to; drawings depicting women subjected to sexual torture, periodicals, writings, drafting sketches and type-written script. He selected a few of these for his case file. I assisted him by photocopying them for his file. Copies of these documents are attached to this report. (REFER TO ATTACHMENT 1)

Mr. Rein also requested a copy of a map depicting the streets of downtown Albuquerque and a newspaper clipping. The newspaper clipping was from the Desert Journal Newspaper, which is published in T or C, New Mexico. The clipping reported a story of a woman who had escaped from a motel after three days of being held captive and subjected to criminal sexual penetration. Copies of the map and newspaper clipping are attached to this report. (REFER TO ATTACHMENT 2)

Upon the completion of the evidence review, Agent Houpt transferred evidence maintained by him to David Bangs in preparation for the upcoming trial. They completed Property Control Receipts. Copies of the Property Control Receipts completed by David Bangs are attached to this report. (REFER TO ATTACHMENT 3)

On February 4, 2000 at approximately 10:45 a.m., SA Houpt and I oversaw the completion of a Suspected Sex Offender Evidence Kit on Cynthia Hendy per Order Allowing Taking of Elimination Standards, # 0722-CR-99-22 filed January 31, 2000 and signed by District Court Judge Neal Mertz. Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) Deonn Arnold performed the taking of the standards at the Prompt Care clinic in Las Cruces.

Fingerprint standards were then taken from Mrs. Hendy following the completion of the kit, which were obtained at the State Police office by SA Houpt. SA Houpt and I transported her back to the detention facility after obtaining the fingerprints. Copies of the court orders and evidence collection form are attached to this report. (REFER TO ATTACHMENTS 4&5) A copy of the fingerprint card is also attached to this report. (REFER TO ATTACHMENT 6)

On February 14, 2000 SA Houpt provided an evidence history document. He created this document to reflect certain items of evidence, location recovered, log information and the agency that recovered the evidence. This evidence was the same as reviewed by Mr. Rein and is to be presented in trial by ADA Yontz. A copy of this document is attached to this report. (REFER TO ATTACHMENT 7) SA Houpt also completed a report documenting the evidence review by Jeff Rein. A copy of this report is also attached to this report. (REFER TO ATTACHMENT 8)

On February 22, 2000, Agent Carrie Parbs and I traveled to Quantico, Virginia where we met with the members of the Federal Bureau of Investigations National Center for the Analysis of Violent Crimes Unit (NCAVC). The FBI case Agents and District Attorneys Ron Lopez and Jim Yontz also attended this meeting, which concluded on February 24, 2000.

NEW MEXICO SUPPLEMENTAL REPORT	ORINO.	INCIDENT NO.	PAGE	OF
	NMNSP2115	99-4587	3	3

Seven NCAVC Agents attended this meeting including SA Mary Ellen O'Toole who had been assigned initially to the David Ray case and headed the meeting. This meeting was conducted in an effort to determine prosecution strategies, counter defense strategies, and the analysis of the criminal behavior aspects of David Ray, Glenda Ray and Cynthia Hendy.

The NCAVC, commonly known as Profilers, developed a descriptive term in referring to preferential sex offenders, such as David Ray, called paraphiliac. Paraphiliacs are characterized by recurrent, intense sexual urges, fantasies, or behaviors that involve unusual objects, activities, or situations and cause clinically significant distress or impairment in social, occupational, or other important areas of functioning.

SA O'Toole has identified David Ray's paraphilias as sadism, voyeurism and possibly bestiality (as what he did to Cynthia Vigil with his dog.) SA O'Toole explained that sexual sadism is a sexual and personality disorder. The sexual sadist is psychopathic and acts out in with criminal behavior. The sexual sadist tortures his victims, either physically or emotionally, and is not pleased unless the victim is in pain. She also stated that sexual sadists become more sophisticated in their fantasies and the developments of their security. The paraphiliac spends the majority of his or her time, money and effort in his paraphilia. It intrudes into their life to where they are always planning or thinking about it.

She also stated paraphilias are learned behaviors that may start as young as twelve to fifteen years old. This behavior becomes stronger to where the paraphiliac must act out on it. Paraphiliacs usually display two or more paraphilias and are constantly evolving. The more intricate the paraphiliac's fantasies the higher the IQ they have. The only way to stop a sexual sadist is to arrest him or her.

Personnel from the FBI lab, via telephone speaker, stated they have had positive results in identifying DNA belonging to Cynthia Vigil on the spiked dildo. They also identified hair consistent to hers on duct tape that was located in the middle bedroom. An anti-depressant known as amitriptyline was found by the lab personnel diluted in bottles of Hot Damm Cinnamon Schnapps.

They also found amitriptyline pills hidden inside of a toolbox (abduction kit). The schnapps and toolbox were recovered from the middle bedroom of Mr. Ray's home. It was learned that amitriptyline mixed with an alcoholic beverage can be used in the form as a date-rape drug.

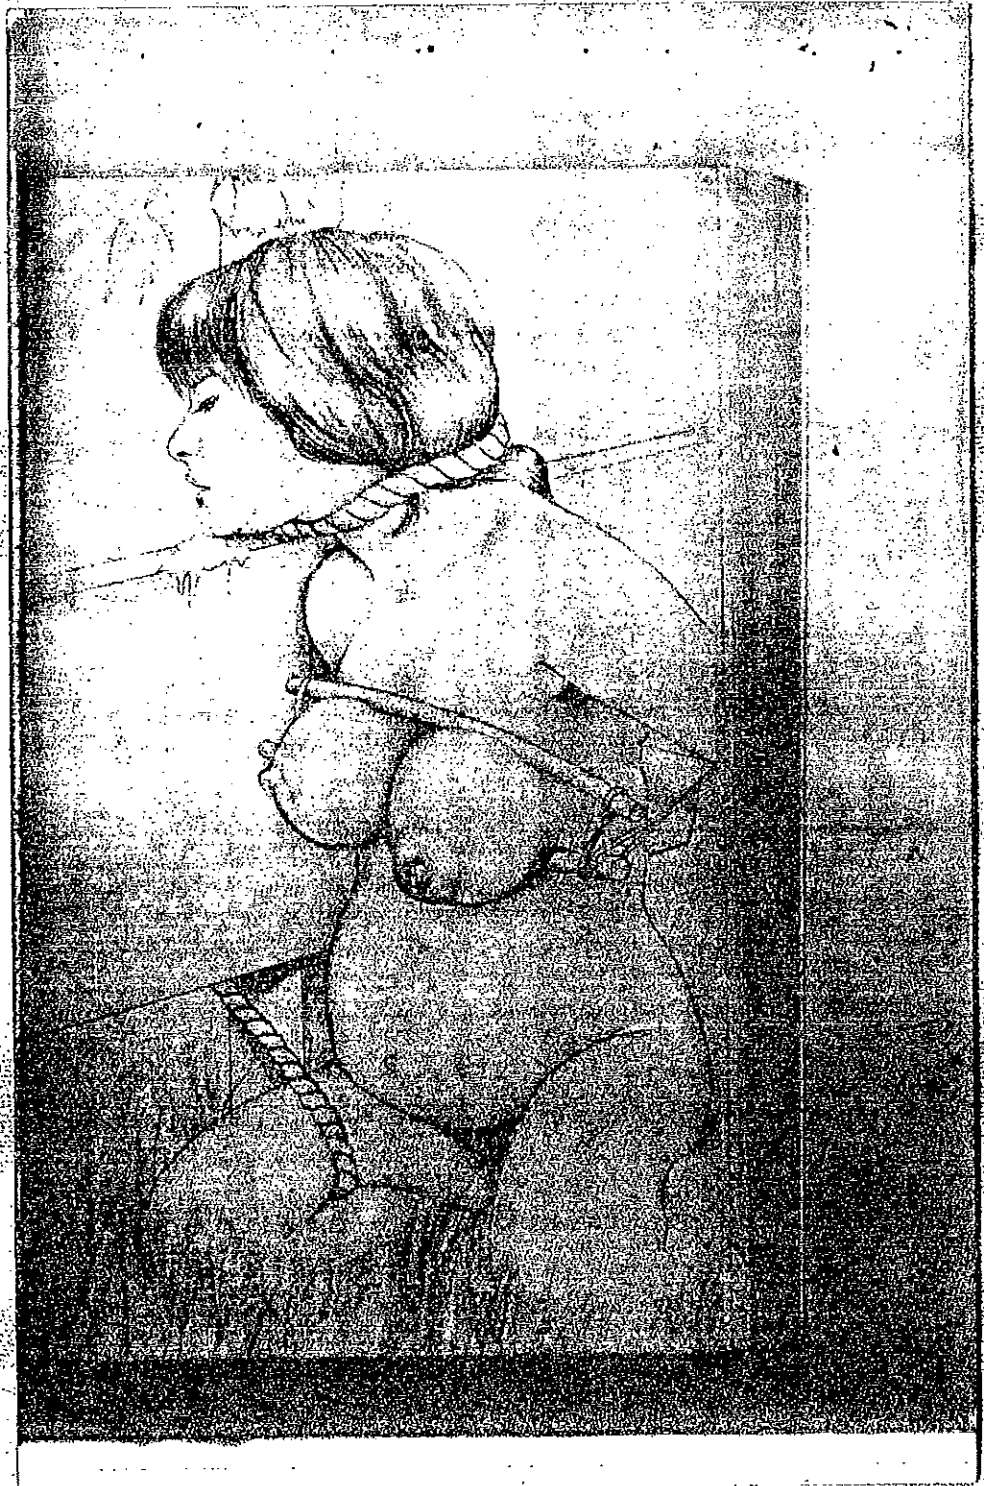

This supplemental report will augment the criminal investigative case file of David Ray. Further developments will be documented in supplemental reports.

"Here," Max said to Sandy, "take this."

Rudely, he stuck the stick up to her back and the two guys forced her wrists into the cuffs. She protested by tossing her mane around and begging them to stop. The damn thing hurt. And the ankle cuffs hurt even worse.

She had forgotten how painful and humiliating being trussed up like this could be.

The ankle cuffs with the brace piece in between made her stand with her cunt spread wide and her clit poking out the top of her ass for the two dominants to see. They leant in against the mantle of the fireplace and commanded Val to come forth.

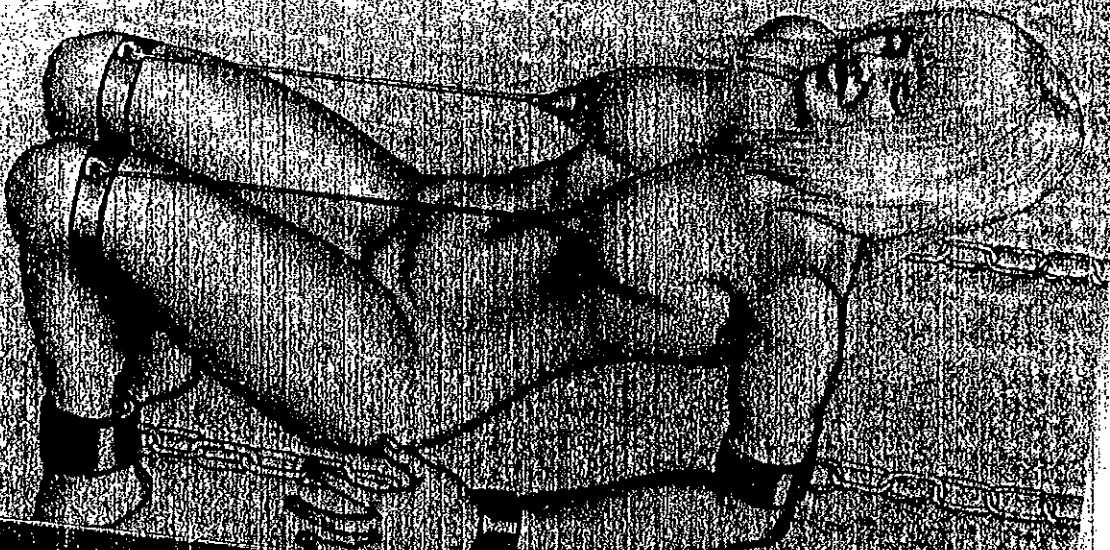

"Now suck," Rick said simply.

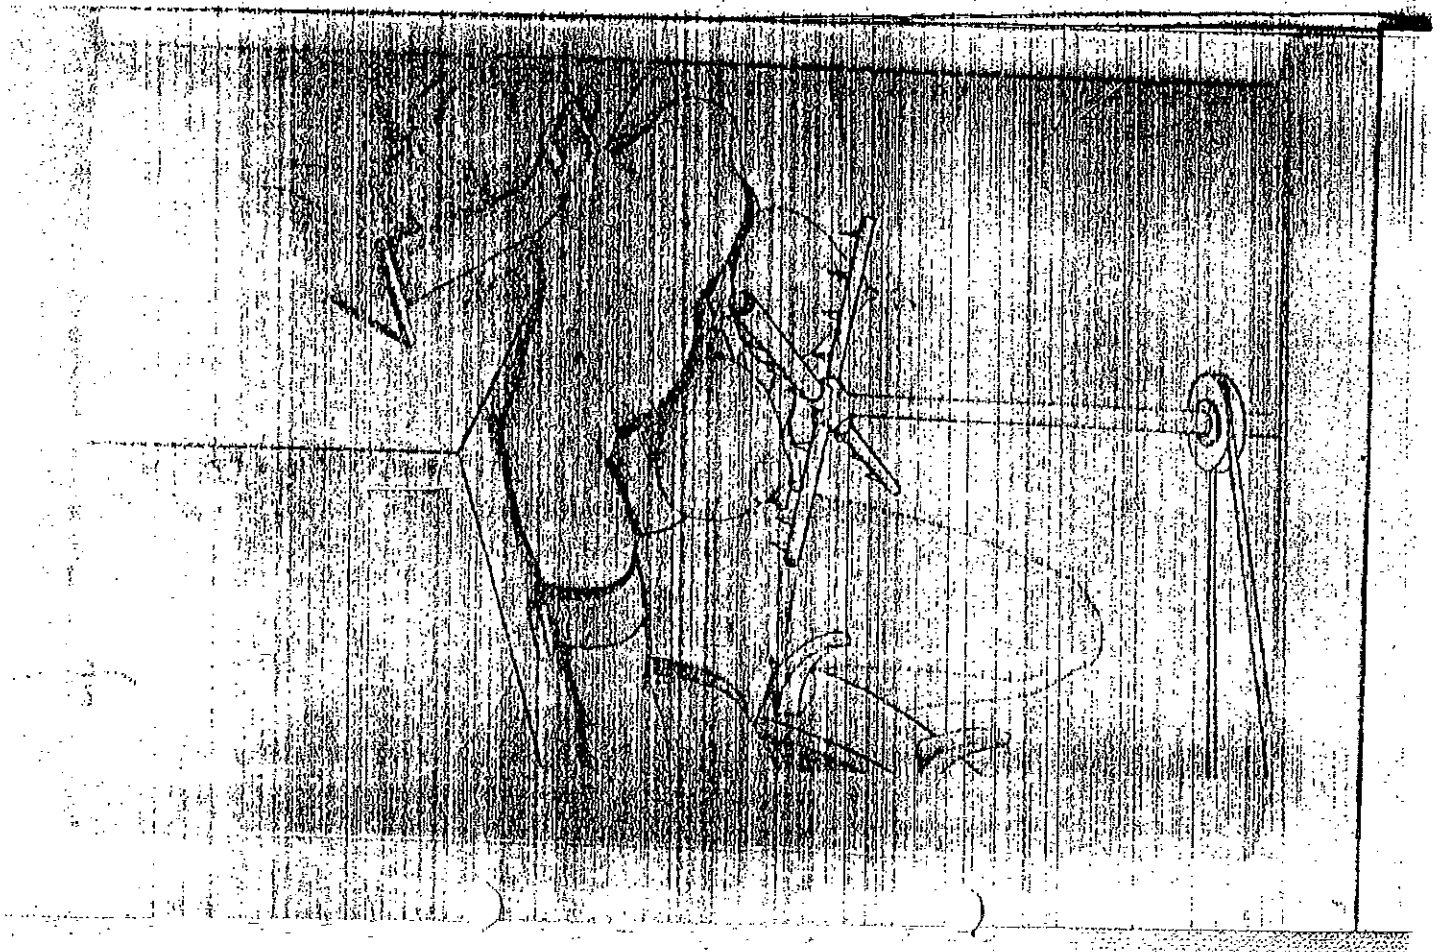

Val shook her head. It was humiliating to have to suck her friend in front of her and she hardly knew. This is not what she had in mind at all. Sandy's cunt lips were quivering with expectation. Val bowed her head and held her place.

"Suck now, Cunt!!!!" Max roared.

He rushed her and stood over her, reached down and slapped her hard on one cheek, then the other. She felt her hand stinging her, making tears spring into eyes.

"No!!!!!!" she protested. "Please don't do it in front of you guys."

"Here," Max said to Sandy, "take this."

Rudely, he stuck the stick up to her back and the two guys forced her wrists into the cuffs. She protested by tossing her mane around and begging them to stop. The damn thing hurt. And the ankle cuffs hurt even worse.

She had forgotten how painful and humiliating being trussed up like this could be.

The ankle cuffs with the brace piece in between made her stand with her cunt spread wide and her clit poking out the top of her skirt for the two dominants to see. They leaned her against the mantle of the fireplace and commanded Val to come forth.

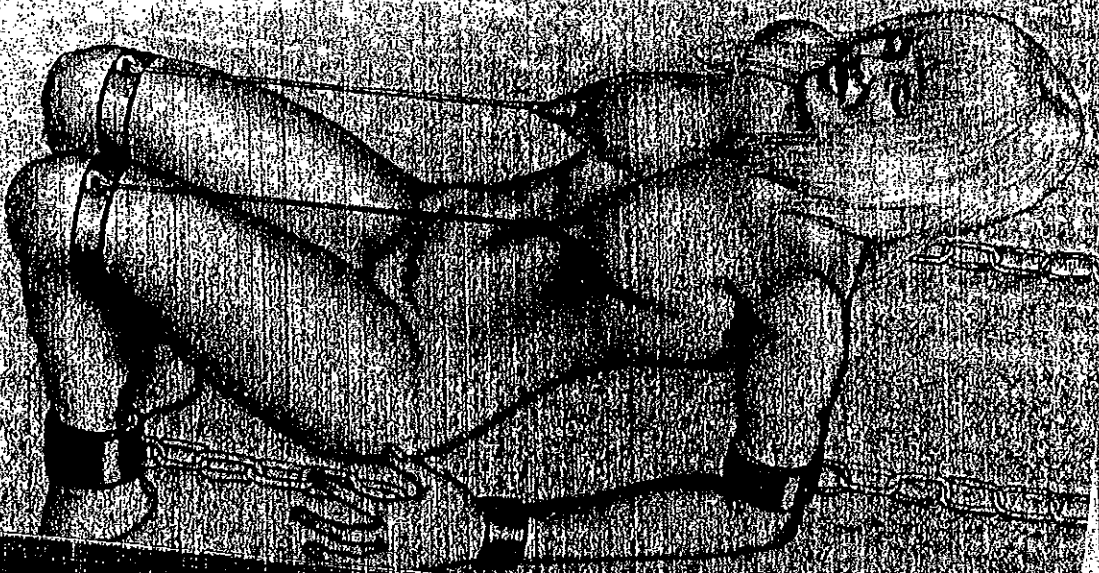

"Now suck," Rick said simply.

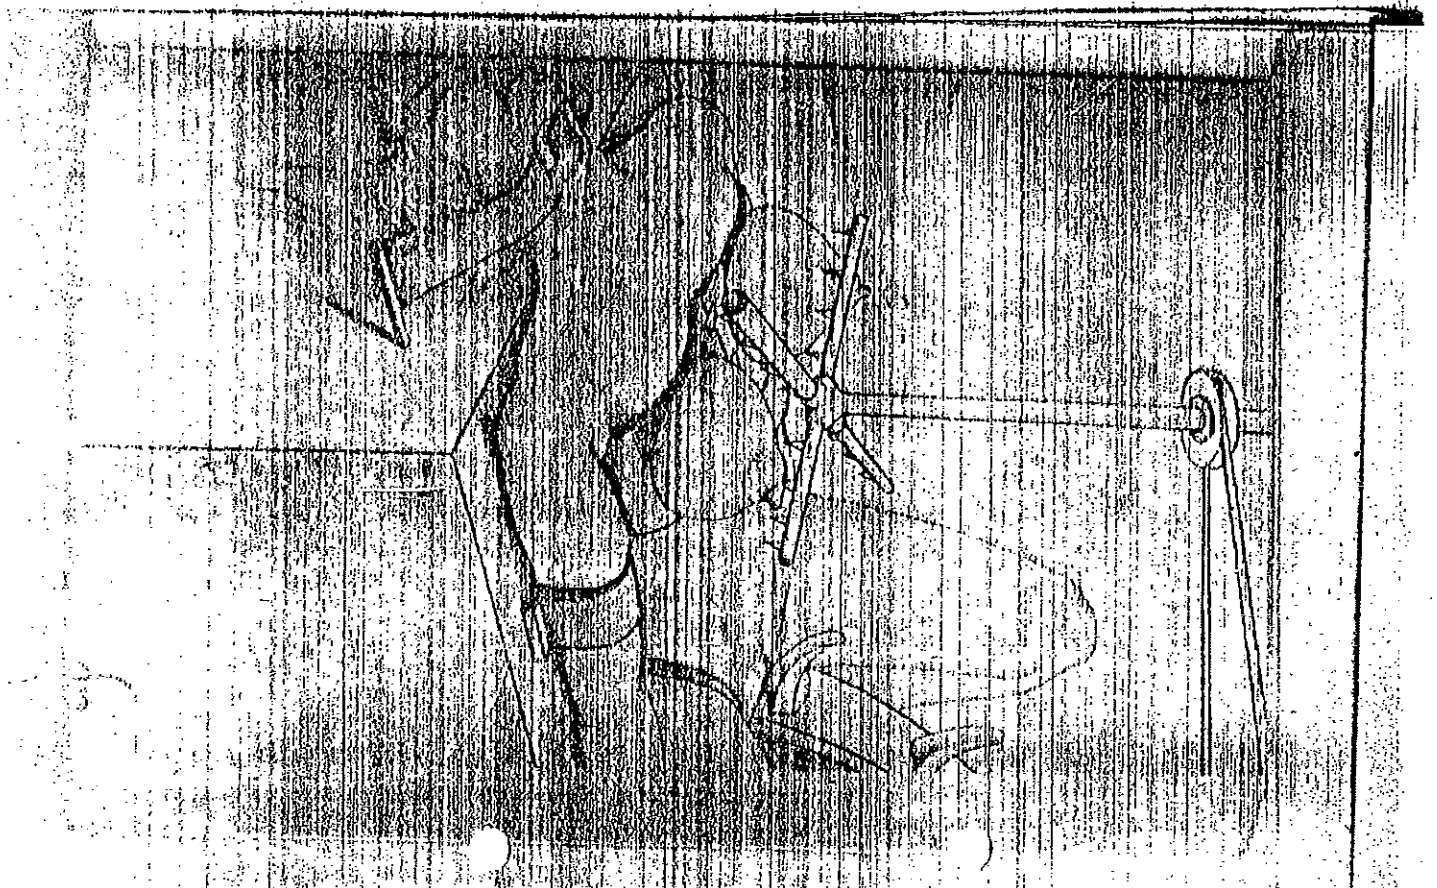

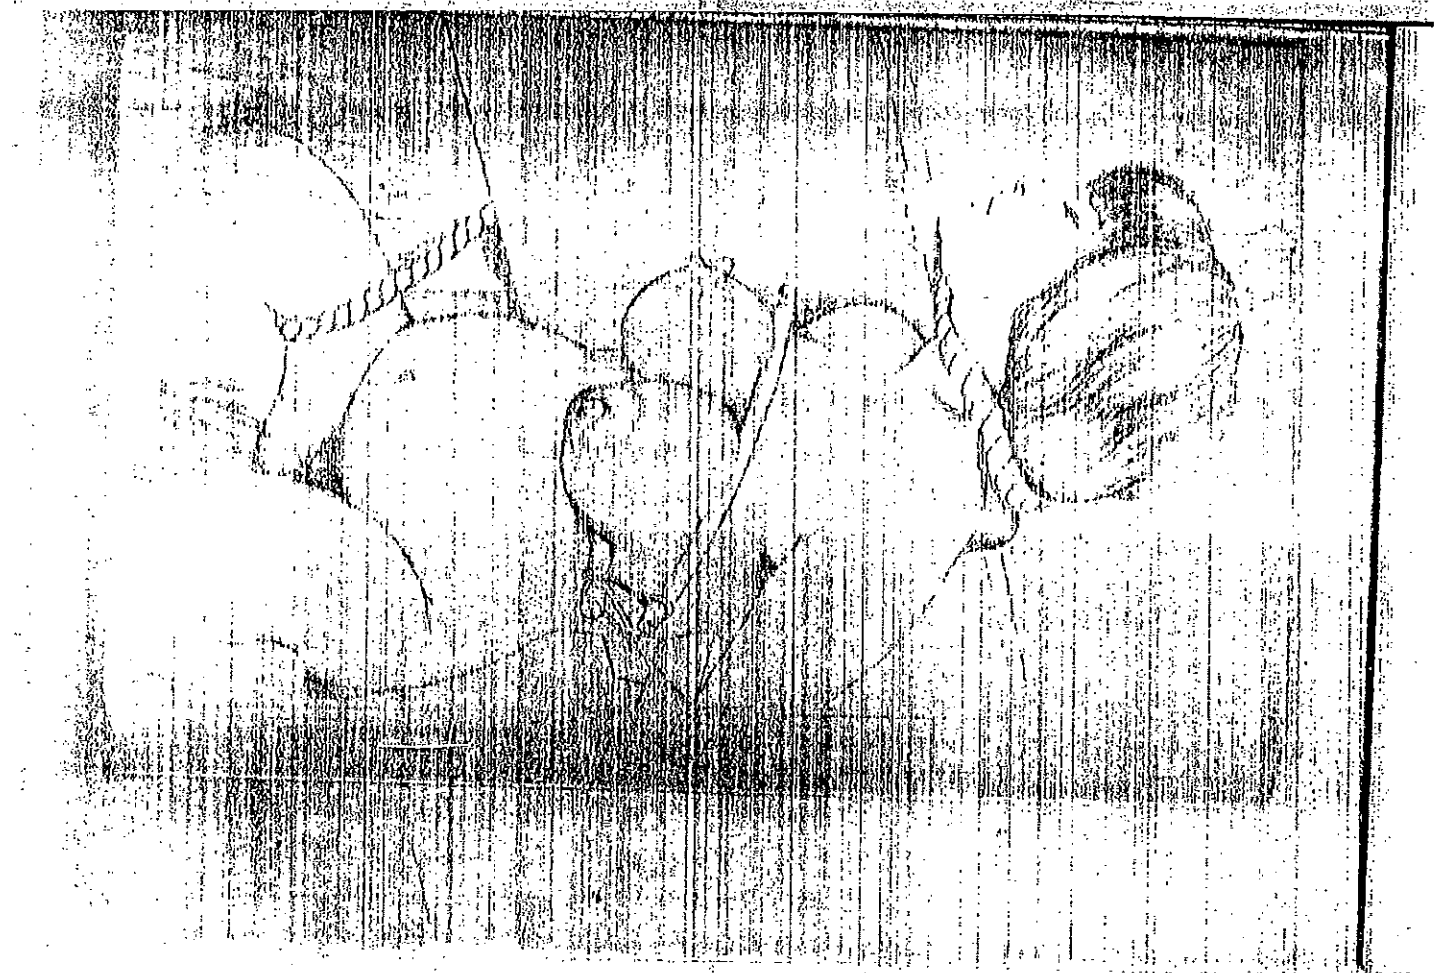

Val shook her head. It was humiliating to have to suck her friend in front of everyone she hardly knew. This is not what she had in mind at all. Sandy's cunt lips were giv- ing her with expectation. Val bowed her head and held her place.

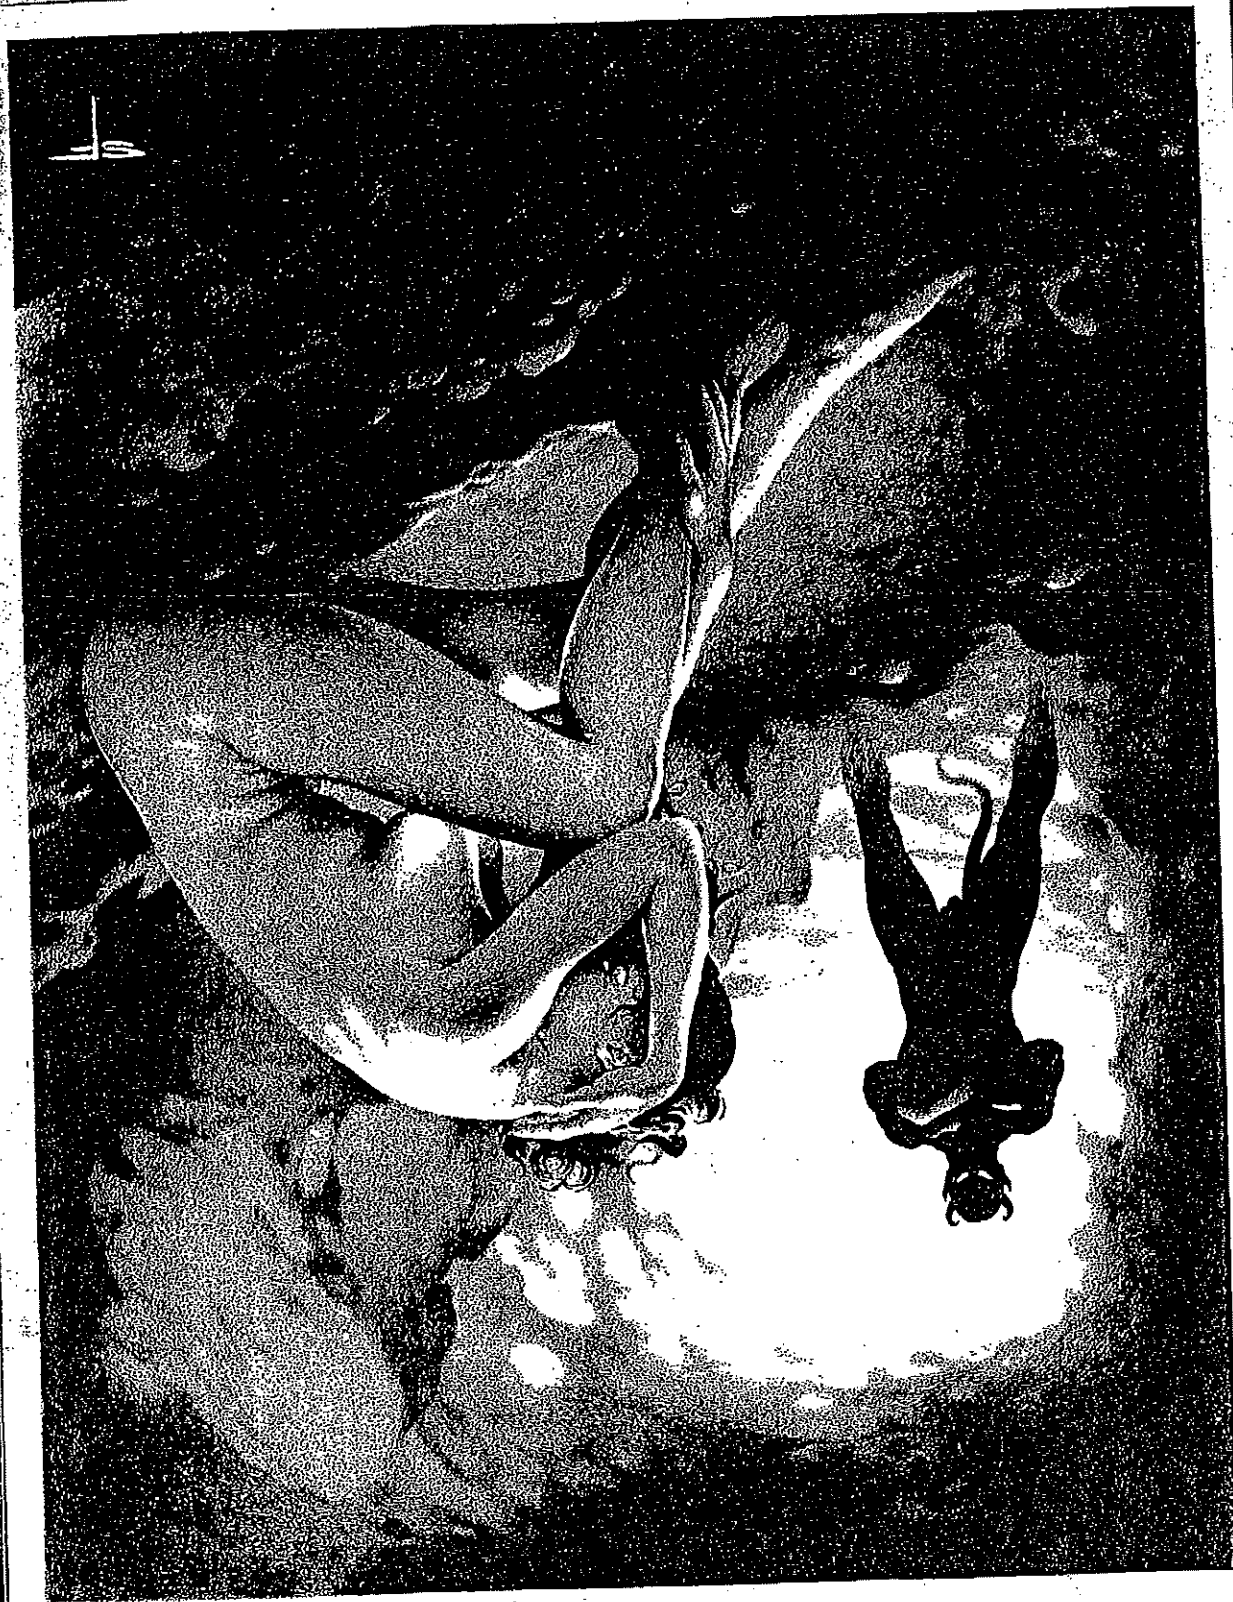

"Suck now, Cunt!!!!!!" Max roared.

He rushed her and stood over her, reached down and slapped her hard, just on one cheek, then the other. She felt her hand stinging her, making tears spring into eyes.

"No!!!!!!" she protested. "Please don't do it in front of you guys."

YOU'RE DOING A GREAT JOB TO HELP STOP THE SPREAD OF HEPATITIS A, AND PROBABLY OTHER DISEASES, TOO, MR. CORTEZ. THANKS FOR TALKING WITH US.

ANYTIME, JESSICA. CUSTOMERS' AND COMMUNITY HEALTH ARE VERY IMPORTANT TO US!

JESSICA, AS YOU CAN SEE, WE GO TO GREAT LENGTHS TO MAKE SURE THAT THE CORRECT METHODS FOR HANDLING FOOD AND HANDWASHING ARE FOLLOWED.

WOW! JEFF, YOU SURE KNOW HOW TO WASH THOSE HANDS!

OF COURSE, HE DOES, JESSICA. HE DOESN'T WANT TO GET INFECTED EITHER.

RAW OR UNDERCOOKED BIVALVE SHELLFISH—SUCH AS OYSTERS, MUSSELS, SCALLOPS, SHRIMP, AND CLAMS—CAN ALSO CONTAIN THE VIRUS IF THEY ARE TAKEN FROM SEWAGE-TAINTED WATERS.

1. FIRST, LET THE WATER GET WARM.

2. THEN WET YOUR HANDS AND APPLY SOAP.

3. RUB YOUR HANDS TOGETHER FOR AT LEAST 20 SECONDS...

4. I USUALLY COUNT TO 20 TO MAKE SURE I'M DOING THIS LONG ENOUGH.

5. RINSE YOUR HANDS THOROUGHLY AND GET OFF ALL THE SOAP...

6. ...AND THEN DRY YOUR HANDS THOROUGHLY.

...USE A PAPER TOWEL TO TURN OFF THE WATER.

THE VACCINES CAN BENEFIT ANYONE TWO YEARS OF AGE OR OLDER TRAVELING TO, OR LIVING IN, AREAS WITH HIGH RATES OF INFECTION.

ANYONE CONCERNED ABOUT HEPATITIS A SHOULD TALK TO HIS OR HER DOCTOR ABOUT VACCINATION.

I'LL BE GOING TO SOUTH AMERICA SO I GUESS I MIGHT BE A GOOD CANDIDATE FOR THE VACCINE?

RIGHT, JESSICA. I CAN GIVE YOU ONE RIGHT NOW IF YOU'D LIKE.

JESSICA, BEFORE I GIVE YOU THE SHOT, YOU NEED TO KNOW THAT ALTHOUGH VACCINES AGAINST HEPATITIS A ARE GENERALLY WELL TOLERATED, THEY MAY CAUSE TENDERNESS, PAIN, SWELLING, HEADACHE, FATIGUE, ERYTHEMA, FEVER, ECCHYMOSIS, ABDOMINAL PAIN, SORENESS, AND ALLERGIC REACTIONS.

YOU'LL NEED TO COME BACK FOR A BOOSTER DOSE IN 6 MONTHS.

THANKS, DR. LIND.

SERIOUS REACTIONS ARE RARE, BUT THEY COULD OCCUR. CALL ME IF YOU EXPERIENCE ANYTHING UNUSUAL WITHIN THE NEXT FEW DAYS. AND AS WITH ALL VACCINES, HEPATITIS A VACCINATION MAY NOT PROTECT 100% OF ALL THOSE WHO ARE VACCINATED... BUT IT'S YOUR BEST SHOT AT PROTECTION!

Geel
didn't hurt!

LATE THAT NIGHT

THIS STORY SURE HAS BEEN AN EYE-OPENER!

IT SURE HAS! POOR DAVE... LOOKS LIKE HE'LL BE LAID UP FOR AWHILE. DID THEY EVER FIGURE OUT HOW HE GOT IT?

I'M SURE GLAD I GOT VACCINATED TODAY!

I BETTER TALK TO MY DOCTOR ABOUT WHETHER I SHOULD BE VACCINATED, TOO! WE'RE LIVING IN AN OUTBREAK COMMUNITY, YOU KNOW!

WELL, HIS DAUGHTER GOES TO ONE OF THE DAY-CARE CENTERS THAT'S BEEN AFFECTED... THAT MIGHT BE IT.

OF COURSE NOT,

THE MAIN WAY TO STOP THE DISEASE'S SPREAD
IS BY HAVING THE EMPLOYEES THOROUGHLY WASH THEIR HANDS

WE ALSO PUT UP SIGNS IN EVERY

TO WASH THEIR HANDS.

SURE, JESSICA. ACTUALLY, WE HAVE
STRICT SANITARY PROTOCOLS FOR OUR STAFF

Love Toys Part 2

AS SEEN IN PART ONE OF OUR

toy guide, sexual enhancers and toys are a wonderful way to add erotic dimensions to your love life. They not only get you off, but allow you to experience a wide variety of unique sensations. Used alone or with a lover, toys make a great time incredible.

So far, we've looked at different types of electric and cordless vibrating playthings. Now, we'll explore the other category.

Moving on to non-vibrating toys, we come to one of my all-time favorites; the jelly-dong. It's flexible and quivers to the touch. It feels slick and slides in my twat with ease. It keeps a slippery feel much easier than the other kinds of dongs and seems to conform better to my inner curves. One of my all-star masturbation sessions is with my jelly dong. First, I spread a lubricator all over my titties and get the dildo slippery by fucking it between my breasts. I let the head of it rub up against my nipples, getting them wet and spread my legs and let the smooth head stroke my hot clit. Finally, I part my lips and let the dong slither into my soaked nookie. Using my right hand, I continue massaging my clitty while pushing the dildo deeper and deeper into my tight

Sometimes, I get in the mood for a harness fuck. No problem! There are tons of strap-ons available. Try to find one that will accommodate most 1 1/2" wide dildos and you're all set for a fucking good time.

How about those beads? There are several double dong. We each insert an end into our twat and work the shaft all the way into our tunnels. The best part is when we've got it buried so deeply that our muffs are rubbing up against each other. Occasionally we decide to butt-fuck ourselves with it. That takes extra time but it gives us one hell of a climax, especially if we're wearing clit pleaser too.

We start off by kissing each other's nipples. Soon, Sandy will climb up over me and we'll lap each other's slits until one of us gets out the double dong. We each insert an end into our twat and work the shaft all the way into our tunnels. The best part is when we've got it buried so deeply that our muffs are rubbing up against each other. Man charged with multiple rapes while 'locking up' victim 87 days

Young Las Cruces woman escapes death chambers in T or C

By Bill Johnson

An Ohio man is behind bars on charges of the multiple rapes and false imprisonment of an 18-year-old Las Cruces woman in Truth or Consequences.

The man's torture and brutality of the victim lasted 87 days from March 24 to June 19 and shifted among three motels within a three block stretch on North Date Street, according to the criminal complaint filed Tuesday in the Sierra County

City police arrested Roger L. Mulik, 26, on charges including 16 counts of criminal sexual penetration and a count each of false imprisonment and bribery or intimidation of a witness, all felonies. The court set bond at $200,000 and Mulik remains incarcerated in the Sierra County Jail.

City Police Detective Jessie Anglin said Wednesday that details surrounding how the case came to light or how it originated, are still under investigation. Basically, it began when police picked up Mulik June 19 for a shoplifting charge at Bullock's grocery on Broadway, then one thing led to another, including Mulik's arrest the same day on an aggravated battery charge under the Family Protection Act, according to Anglin.

The victim came to the police department as soon as the defendant had been arrested for other charge to report what had been occurring for the last three months. The victim states

CINDY HENDY,
DEFENDANT.

MOTION FOR TAKING OF ELIMINATION STANDARDS

Comes now the State of New Mexico, by and through Deputy District Attorney James A. Yontz, and hereby requests to Court to issue an order allowing the taking of elimination standards from the defendant Cindy Hendy for the purpose of comparison with evidence seized in this case and the related cause of State v. David Parker Ray, 0722-CR-99-021. As a basis for this request the State offers the following:

1. The officers of the State of New Mexico and of the Federal Bureau of Investigation conducted an investigation of allegations of kidnapping, criminal sexual penetration and other felony offenses occurring at, in and around the residence located at 513 Bass Rd, Elephant Butte, New Mexico.

2. The investigation included the seizure of trace evidence from the residence on Bass Road, from trailers located on the property and from an recreational vehicle possessed by David Parker Ray and Cindy Hendy.

3. Cindy Hendy had access and was known to be in each area from which trace evidence was taken including all areas on the property at Bass Road and the recreational vehicle.

4. The trace evidence which was seized included hair and possible body fluids.

5. Standards of the defendant's hair and body fluids are needed for purposes of comparison with the evidence which has been seized to date so that the defendant can be eliminated or included as a possible donor of the evidence.

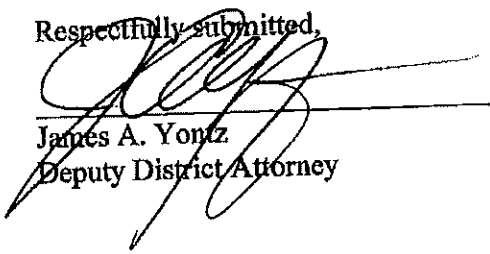

6. Counsel for the defendant has been contacted by the State and has consented to the needed elimination standards being taken based upon this motion and without further hearing before the court.

7. The standards will be seized by qualified personnel in a medically improved manner.

8. Said items are necessary pieces of evidence in the investigation of this case which is continuing and ongoing.

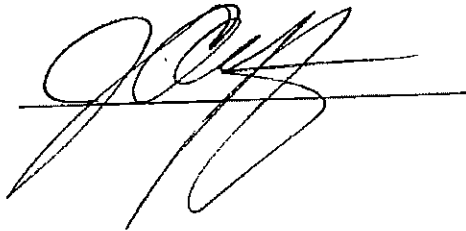

Wherefore the State respectfully requests the Court issue an order allowing the taking of hair and body fluid samples from the defendant for the purposes of comparison with evidence seized in this case.

Respectfully submitted,

James A. Yontz
Deputy District Attorney

I hereby certify that a copy of this motion was sent to Ms. Carmen Garza, counsel for the defendant, Cindy Hendy, and to Mr. Jeff Rein, counsel for David Parker Ray, on January 31, 2000.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 2/2/00

Evidence items listed on the attached receipt were removed from bulky evidence storage and shown to the defense team for David Parker Ray, consisting of Jeff Rein, Kathy Love and Sara Singhas. Also present were Jim Yontz, Assistant District Attorney (ADA) for the Seventh Judicial District of the State of New Mexico, his intern Steve Gonzalez, and Agent Wesley LaCuesta of the New Mexico State Police. New Mexico State Police (NMSP) Evidence Technician David Bangs joined the group later.

The evidence items were brought in sealed condition to an interview room at the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) office for viewing. The defense team was allowed to look at all items they wanted to see. The packages were then resealed, initialed and dated. SA Houpt and Agent LaCuesta used rubber gloves while handling all items.

The defense requested copies of nine audio tapes in a plastic box marked as New Mexico State Police item 9-26, which is in the custody of Agent LaCuesta. They were referred to ADA Yontz for these inasmuch as he was already given copies of the tapes. The defense team was also made aware that prints of crime scene and search photos were already given to ADA Yontz for discovery.

Evidence previously used in the preliminary hearing was also displayed to the defense. This included the metal chain and collar taken off of Cynthia Vigil, an advisory audio tape, and four original Polaroid photos of Candy Fair taken from NMSP item 9-40. The defense declined to look at some items, including radio dispatch logs and a 911 call tape produced by NMSP. The defense was made aware that the following items were still being processed at the FBI Laboratory:

- 1B242 - Cinammon Schnapps
- 1B760 - Van Cleave video tape
- 1B861 - Grey tool box with a badge, knife, ropes, thumb cuffs, Hot Damn liquor, and duct tape with hair (NMSP Item 10-4)
- 1B907 - A stun gun from the dresser
- 1B914 - Broken lamp glass and a bedspread
- 1B936 - Duct tape from the middle room
- 1B951 - Hair from the floor of the mobile home

- 1B952 - An ice pick
- 1B953 - A cattle prod
- 1B955 - A phone handset

At 2:50 p.m., items listed on the attached receipt that are not crossed out and initialed were released to NMSP Evidence Technician David Bangs to be used for trial. Items crossed out were not released because, during the meeting, ADA Yontz stated he would not be introducing those items for trial. Items not released were returned to bulky evidence storage.

After the defense team had left and evidence had been loaded into Bangs' vehicle, SA Houpt and Agent LaCuesta returned to the interview room to clean out the room and found a brown file used to prop open the interview room floor. It had labeled sections, one of which was marked "preliminary hearing". SA Houpt showed this to Agent LaCuesta, who opined it belonged to ADA Yontz and said he would take it with him. Neither SA Houpt nor Agent LaCuesta read any contents of the file. This was at about 3:45 p.m.

At 4:20 p.m., while driving south, SA Houpt received another text page to call the office as soon as possible. He called the office by radio and learned Rein was in the office saying he would not leave until he obtained the file he left behind. Through the dispatcher, SA Houpt told Rein that Agent LaCuesta had the file. SA Houpt suggested the office call NMSP and have LaCuesta dispatched back to the office to return the file. However, Rein left as soon as he learned LaCuesta had the file.

SA Houpt stopped a few minutes later at a gas station and reached Rein by phone. Rein had not yet checked his voice mail. SA Houpt told Rein that Agent LaCuesta believed the file belonged to ADA Yontz and told Rein the best procedure would be to call the NMSP immediately and have the dispatcher contact LaCuesta by radio or, if that did not work, by pager and tell him to not look at the file and to have him return it immediately. Rein thanked SA Houpt for his assistance.

The next morning, SA Houpt called Agent LaCuesta, who had not yet been contacted regarding the file. LaCuesta said he would immediately call Rein to make arrangements to return the file.

Introduction

In February 2003 New Mexico State Police (NMSP) investigators asked the National Park Service's Submerged Resources Center (NPS-SRC) to assist with remote sensing survey of portions of Elephant Butte reservoir to try to locate victims of convicted criminal David Parker Ray. Based on their investigations, the NMSP narrowed the area of interest to the vicinity of Kettle Top Butte. The area had been previously surveyed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) using side scan sonar, but their targets could not be relocated by NMSP divers. The NPS-SRC survey was accurately positioned using real-time differential Global Positioning System (DGPS) and a magnetometer was used in addition to side scan sonar. These are the most effective remote sensing instruments for this type of survey.

Survey Objectives

Survey objectives included determining presence of human remains or associated ferrous objects (anchors or chain) on or beneath the lakebed within the project area. This determination would be based on DGPS-positioned side scan sonar and magnetometer investigations around Kettle Top Butte in areas designated by NMSP investigators. NPS-SRC designed the remote sensing survey to image the lakebed to locate features on or above the lake bottom and detect magnetic anomalies that might represent human remains or related materials as indicated by NMSP.

Survey Design And Rationale

NPS-SRC designed the Elephant Butte survey to produce a comprehensive data set that would be accessible to the NMSP and be compatible with future remote sensing searches should they be necessary. The survey design was based upon wide-area archeological survey methodology developed by NPS-SRC as part of the Systemwide Archeological Inventory Program (SAIP).

Data collection, post-plotting, analysis and presentation were designed to be utilized in a Geographical Information System (GIS) database to facilitate access by NMSP and parties involved in future searches. This approach results in an electronic product that can incorporate available digital data, such as aerial imagery and digitized maps, so they can be combined with project-specific results and be analytically manipulated to examine relationships that would otherwise be extremely difficult to observe. The Elephant Butte project GIS data set was generated to provide a standardized, permanent, cumulative, computer-accessible product for NMSP investigators involved in project planning and future assessments.

Geographic Information Systems (GIS)

GIS is the use of multiple, spatially referenced databases to produce maps that graphically depict user-generated combinations of variables presented as themes, layers or coverages. It has only been in the last few years that technological advances in software and hardware have overcome difficulties in collecting, collating, storing, editing, querying, depicting and manipulating the large amount of data generated by marine remote sensing survey. Elephant Butte survey results were collected and processed so as to be incorporated into a GIS product easily transferable to NMSP investigators.

GIS provides a methodology to compare variables among many sets of spatial data, such as remote sensing results and natural environmental characterizations, to examine distribution and change over space, and, if sufficient data are available, over time. Rapid manipulation of scale and variables can allow pattern recognition that may not be apparent at other levels. Examination of combined variables is instant because they are presented graphically, greatly simplifying analysis by precluding the necessity of generating mathematical and statistical models to characterize patterned relationships. Current computer and software speed allow rapid manipulation of multiple variable combinations, which allows generation of associations and relationships that might otherwise be unanticipated. Hypotheses can be quickly generated and tested through a seamless graphical display. Because sophisticated mathematical ability is not required, most researchers with basic GIS software familiarity can easily manipulate data in a GIS format.

GIS data sets can be presented as tabular database files or themes that can be generated, analyzed, scaled, combined, superimposed and displayed through direct user access in unlimited variations in a GIS program, such as ESRI's ArcView GIS. Data themes are presentations of nonspatial data referenced to a common location expressed as geographic coordinates. One way of looking at themes is to consider them x - y horizontal locations that share a category of variable z values, which represent discrete, quantifiable attributes, for example water depth or magnetic intensity. GIS analytical techniques include statistical and spatial analysis, measurement, and comparisons that can be used to create additional themes reflecting analytical results useful for additional hypothesis testing.

Two problems make creation of GIS data sets expensive and time consuming: accuracy determination and conversion of various data sets to an appropriate format. Mixing different accuracy levels among data sets degrades overall GIS accuracy and gives a false sense of comparability that can lead to serious analytical problems in data interpretation. Data set conversions must consider fundamental geodetic concepts such as geoid, ellipsoid, datum, coordinate system and projection. Geodesy factors vary over time and space, and each variation is critical to conversion accuracy. Few researchers record a chart's datum and projection when generating coordinates. For example, latitude/longitude coordinates in North American Datum 1927 (NAD 27) and those in World Geodetic System 1984 (WGS 84) can vary from tens to hundreds of meters--confusing these datums introduces serious error. Being given coordinates in NAD 27 and trying to relocate the point with an instrument reading in WGS 84 is an easy and common mistake to make. All data generated during the Elephant Butte survey were based on the WGS 84 datum, which is the standard for GPS-generated positions.

GIS Data Archiving

Elephant Butte survey electronic data archiving is in a non-proprietary format, primarily DOS ASCII text, which ensures long-term data accessibility. All results are stored in latitude/longitude and Universal Transverse Mercator (UTM), WGS 84. NPS-SRC stores archive data in latitude/longitude coordinates so that the database can be easily converted if future alterations or corrections are made to WGS 84; it is more difficult to convert grid coordinates after a datum revision. Most current computer programs require grid coordinates, so GIS themes are also archived in this form.

Survey Blocks and Sample Intervals

Hydrographic survey is conducted in areas or blocks through which the survey vessel travels along preplotted transects, or lanes, at investigator-defined intervals selected to ensure complete instrumental coverage of the study area. Appropriate lane spacing depends upon the survey questions and remote sensing instrument attributes. The Elephant Butte survey was conducted with preplotted blocks to maximize remote sensing coverage of the study areas. Standard NPS-SRC practice is to label survey blocks with the four-letter acronym followed by a numerical designation, in this case ELBU001 (ELephant BUTte 001), ELBU003, and ELBU004. Survey block ELBU002 was designated but was out of the primary survey area and not completed.

The survey blocks were designed for the magnetometer survey with 12.5-meter lane spacing to ensure maximum coverage of each survey area. In most cases, standard NPS-SRC survey methodology for wide area survey requires 30-meter transects, which have been demonstrated to provide cost-effective magnetic coverage for discovering most colonial-period shipwrecks. For the Elephant Butte survey, however, 12.5-meter lane spacing was chosen because of the subtlety of potential targets. Side scan sonar survey was conducted on 25-meter lanes with a 50-meter swath to ensure total coverage of more than 200%.

GPS provides a position every second, and all instrument data were collected at intervals of 1½ seconds or less and collated with the current DGPS position. At a typical boat speed of 3 knots, a sample is collected about every 2 to 3 meters along the transect. At each sample point a magnetic reading was taken and recorded. The side scan sonar survey produces continuous digital data along each survey transect. Continuous DGPS positioning and software interpolation allows investigators to generate accurate coordinates for any target appearing in the side scan record.

Positioning

Hydrographic survey requires real-time positions with rapid updates (1–2 seconds) for accurate vessel navigation to ensure complete, systematic coverage at the desired sample interval. NPS-SRC procedures for GIS-based remote sensing produce an accuracy of a 4-meter circle-of-error or less. Unlike terrestrial survey and mapping, hydrographic survey usually has no landmarks. For marine survey, it is very difficult to occupy and then reoccupy the same point and to continually know where you are without real-time positioning.

Accuracy is usually expressed as parts-per-unit (e.g., 1:10,000) or circle-of-error. Plottable accuracy, the accuracy that a point can be plotted, is much less important now because of GIS digital entry and zoom capability. Circle-of-error is indicated by an ellipse whose largest radius represents the root mean square error of a set of measurements, and whose orientation shows directional uncertainty. The ellipse, centered on the true position, is typically at the 95% statistical confidence level and is given as the largest diameter of the ellipse, for example a 4-meter circle-of-error.

The GPS and GIS combination has provided a solution for accurate positioning and analysis, particularly in hydrographic remote sensing. However, some additions to the basic GPS system are necessary to achieve acceptable accuracy levels for remote sensing surveys like the one carried out at Elephant Butte. Autonomous civilian GPS receivers produce circles-of-error of 5-10 meters, which is outside acceptable accuracy levels. Real-time positions of the accuracy required can be achieved through use of differential corrections that compensate for such variables as ionospheric variation, which alters the satellite signal propagation times through the atmosphere. Differential corrections require access to a base station, which is on a known position and calculates corrections to the satellite signals it receives and transmits them to the survey vessel receiver where they are utilized to minimize positional error. Broadcast differential corrections are currently available in most coastal areas and many inland areas through the US Coast Guard (USCG) navigational beacons and commercial suppliers, who provide differential corrections at various accuracy levels. For example, the USCG navigation beacons are guaranteed to 3-5-meter circle-of-error, although our tests indicate that accuracy levels are about 3 meters in most areas. For the Elephant Butte survey, circle-of-error is estimated to be less than 4 meters throughout, based on use of USCG real-time corrections and tests conducted by NPS-SRC in other areas under similar conditions.

Remote Sensing Instruments

Remote sensing instruments used to examine the submerged areas around Kettle Top Butte included a Marine Sonic Technology side scan sonar operating at 600 kHz and a Geometrics G-881 cesium marine magnetometer. Positioning was provided by a Trimble AG132 DGPS receiver with a consistent Circle-of-Error Probable (CEP) of less than 4 meters. Data were collected on a Cyber Research NRG 311 ruggedized laptop computer running Coastal Oceanographic's Hypack Max software. Side scan sonar data were collected on a Marine Sonic Sea Scan PC system utilizing Marine Sonic proprietary software.

Positioning

Positioning accuracy was consistently within at least a 3-4 meter circle-of-error throughout the survey area. A Trimble AG132 DGPS receiver was used aboard the survey boat for positioning survey navigation and data collection. Differential corrections were provided real-time by USCG corrections broadcasting from Albuquerque at a frequency of 291 kHz.

Side Scan Sonar

Side scan sonar is one of the principal remote sensing instruments used in hydrographic survey. Side scan sonar uses sound waves to image the sea floor and objects laying on it or protruding above it. Normally a towed system, side scan sonar transmits a microsecond-pulsed, vertically narrow acoustic beam to each side of the tow vessel's path at multiple times per second. The beam propagates through the water and across the sea floor, reflecting incident sound energy back to the sonar sensor. A sonar data processor converts the reflections' intensity and time delays to a visual image for display. The end result is an image of the sea floor of near photographic quality showing areas of light (strong reflection) and dark (areas of lower reflectivity or shadow areas).

Magnetometer

The other principal detection device used in the Elephant Butte survey, as it is with most submerged remote sensing surveys, was a magnetometer.

The magnetometer has long been a standard archeological survey instrument. A Geometrics, of Sunnyvale, California, model G-881 cesium magnetometer was used for the Elephant Butte survey. Magnetometers detect and quantify magnetic fields. In hydrographic survey, ferrous or magnetic objects can be located by noting small perturbations, called "anomalies," in the earth's ambient magnetic field. Ferrous objects cause a localized increase or decrease, usually both, in the ambient magnetic field. Ferrous objects in this context are generally of cultural origin. The magnetometer, like the one used for the Elephant Butte survey, measures and records the total magnetic field intensity in a manner independent of sensor coil orientation and presence of sediment. In practice, because full-field magnetometers are not influenced by sediment, they are ideal detection devices for submerged cultural materials of ferrous construction on or beneath the seabed.

Typical cesium magnetometer resolution of the earth's magnetic field is less than 1 gamma, and in some cases 0.1 gamma, in the earth's field of approximately 50,000 gammas (nanoteslas), which means there is very little noise in the magnetic readings generated during the Elephant Butte survey. Noise reduction is important so that small ferrous objects, which produce small anomalies, can be reliably detected. The industry standard (for example, Department of Interior, Minerals Management Service Guidelines for Offshore Lease Block Surveys) specifies a noise level of +/- 3 gammas or less. The G-881, which represents the current state-of-the-art produces a remarkably low noise level because only processed data and power are transmitted over the tow cable. Raw data are collected and processed by a computer in the towfish. Magnetometers of traditional design have the computer on the surface and transmit the raw signal from the sensor to the surface, which creates a much higher noise level because the cable acts like an antenna for extraneous noise-producing electrical energy. Noise is an issue because the gamma reading of a particular ferrous mass, which is proportional to the size of the mass, declines as a cube of the distance between the sensor and the mass. Noise in high-resolution magnetometer survey masks smaller anomalies that might be of interest. The G-881 permits discrimination and recognition of anomalies that are within the noise levels of most proton-precession magnetometers, consequently, very small anomalies may be reliably recognized. Discrimination of the smallest possible magnetic anomalies is desirable during this type of survey.

The most effective presentation of magnetic data for archeological purposes is as contour lines representing lines of magnetic intensity, called isogammas. Contour configurations representing relatively intense changes in the earth's field indicate presence of ferrous materials. Reliable isogamma contouring for traditional magnetometer data display is rarely done on less than 5-gamma contours, more frequently it is on 10 or more gamma contours. Data collected during the Elephant Butte survey was contoured on 2 gammas.

Magnetic readings simply indicate the presence and possible mass of an object. There is no unique relationship between anomaly intensity and isogamma contour configuration and an object. Any number of combinations of objects can produce similar anomalies. The only way to determine anomaly sources is by direct diver or remotely operated vehicle (ROV) investigation.

Software

SRC used several off-the-shelf, PC-based software packages for hydrographic survey operations: AutoCAD by Autodesk (Sausalito, CA); QuickSurf by Schrieber Instruments (Denver, CO); Hypack, hydrographic data collection software by Coastal Oceanographics, Inc. (Durham, CT); and ArcView, a geographical information system by ESRI, Inc. (Redlands, CA). All are PC-based and provided quick and easy access to field data in a Windows environment.

Remote Sensing Methodology

General methodology included DGPS positioned survey with a side scan sonar and marine magnetometer with differential corrections provided by a USCG DGPS signal. Side scan sonar survey would locate any material laying on or protruding above the seabed. Magnetic survey was directed toward locating ferrous material possibly associated with victims, such as anchor, chain and perhaps wire bundles.

Magnetic data were post-processed in Hypack hydrographic data collection software, which produces an xyz ASCII file, with x and y representing Universal Transverse Mercator (UTM) coordinates and z representing the full-field magnetic value or water depth. The magnetic data were further reduced by performing a running two-point subtraction to isolate the value change between each data point, producing a z value of magnetic gradients. This procedure, developed by NPS-SRC, has proven useful for anomaly analysis and inclusion of multiple-day survey data results into GIS themes. The xyz files were imported into Quicksurf, a surface modeling module of AutoCAD, and contoured on a Triangulated Integrated Network (TIN). The contoured data were incorporated into an ArcView GIS database, producing a cumulative data set that is both appropriate to the Elephant Butte survey and will provide a baseline for future work if necessary.

All remote sensing instruments were deployed from Elephant Butte State Park's 25-ft. Proline patrol boat. Instruments were towed and instrument locations relative to the GPS antenna were corrected to the GPS antenna datum in Hypack or in the Marine Sonic acquisition software. Survey lanes (transects) were pre-plotted in Hypack so as to ensure full coverage around Kettle Top Butte and used for navigation during data acquisition. The navigation software positioned the boat on transects in real time, which allowed the boat pilot to make course corrections to follow the desired lane.

Survey lanes were spaced at 25 meters for side scan sonar and 12.5 meters for magnetometer. This lane spacing ensured comprehensive coverage for magnetometer and at least 250% overlap for side scan sonar. Instruments were towed concurrently when possible.

Magnetometer distance from the bottom was maintained at 4 meters or less in all survey operations to ensure optimal detection of metallic objects. Magnetometer data were post-processed and contoured on a 2-gamma gradient before being imported as a theme into ArcView 3.2 GIS software.

The side scan sonar towfish was towed at a height above bottom that ensured a clear delineation of bottom features, but at no time greater than 15% of water depth. Sonar range was 50 meters per side, which provides at least 200% overlap on consecutive survey passes at the survey transect spacing. Sonar resolution is a function of frequency, with higher frequencies producing higher resolution; the 600 kHz towfish has an optimal combination of range and resolution and has been used successfully by SRC to locate drowning victims in the past.

Remote Sensing Operations and Results

Survey operations began February 24, 2003. NPS-SRC personnel installed survey equipment on Elephant Butte State Park's 25-ft. Proline boat, then transited to the survey area. Elephant Butte State Park Ranger Russell Woolfe was onboard the survey boat during all operations. Data collection began by 12:00 noon. The first areas covered were blocks ELBU003 and ELBU004, along with a small cove behind ELBU004 where an Elephant Butte reservoir pumping station is located. These survey blocks were located in coves off the main reservoir channel and were indicated by NMSP Agent Norman Rhoades, who was onboard during all survey operations, as primary target areas for survey. Because of bottom topography, NPS-SRC staff conducted side scan sonar and magnetometer operations separately in these areas.

On February 24, side scan sonar was completed in blocks ELBU003, ELBU004, and the pumping station cove. Magnetometer survey was begun in block ELBU003. On February 25, magnetometer coverage was completed in block ELBU003, and survey operations shifted to block ELBU001, which covers a large area southwest of Kettle Top Butte in the main reservoir channel. We began operations by towing the side scan sonar and magnetometer concurrently, but the side scan went offline midday, and we had to send a team to Truth or Consequences to get parts. Meanwhile, we surveyed with magnetometer only. When the side scan was back online in the afternoon, we resumed concurrent survey, then went back and completed omitted side scan sonar lanes. Side scan sonar coverage for all primary survey areas was completed (Figure 1). On the morning of February 26, we completed magnetometer coverage of block ELBU004 and filled-in remaining lanes in ELBU001 (Figure 2). Because the pumping station cove was too small for preplotted lanes and the magnetometer produces excessive noise when circling in a small area, we did not conduct magnetometer operations in that cove.

After analyzing all data, a total of 36 side scan sonar targets and 15 magnetometer anomalies were selected for further investigation as potential areas containing materials of a size, shape and magnetic intensities representing potential evidence (Figures 3 and 4). A list of target coordinates, both side scan sonar and magnetometer, is included as Appendix A. Side scan sonar images of each target are provided in Appendix B. Side scan sonar targets were chosen because of their length (between 1.5 and 2 m) and shape. All have some relief from the bottom, as exhibited by their shadows. In general, targets were chosen that exhibited characteristics distinct from the background geology. There is a high probability, however, that many of these targets will turn out to be natural features (rocks or trees and logs). Magnetic anomalies were chosen that had relatively short duration and intensity of at least 6 gammas. These would be consistent with small, isolated objects such as individual anchors or short lengths of chain, which are the primary ferrous targets.

Conclusions

The Elephant Butte remote sensing survey covered areas of primary interest designated by NMSP investigators for victims of David Parker Ray with real-time DGPS positioned side scan sonar and magnetometer data collection. Instruments and software used represent the current state-of-the-art in marine remote sensing, and survey lane spacing was set to maximize the likelihood of detecting evidence of Parker Ray's crimes. Although many areas of interest were chosen for further examination, no targets immediately were immediately recognizable as obvious human remains. If no victims are found based on these data, it does not mean that victims are not present in the survey area, just that they were not able to be located with these instruments. The side scan sonar will image objects on or above the lake bottom, but will not detect buried targets. Potential targets (such as human remains wrapped in a heavy, canvas tarp) are unlikely to produce a definitive or obvious target. High sedimentation rates in the reservoir make it possible that all remains have been buried by natural processes since deposition. The magnetometer will detect buried objects, but only if they are associated with ferrous metal materials, such as anchors or chain. If human remains were weighted with cinderblocks or other non-ferrous materials, then they would be undetectable with the magnetometer.

The NPS-SRC/NMSP partnership is an excellent example of government agencies working together for direct public benefit. This collaboration is a model of combining public resources to cost-efficiently address issues important to the people of New Mexico. The high standard of professionalism, dedication and expertise demonstrated by all involved reflects very well indeed on the NMSP. We look forward to the continuation of this collaboration in the future.
